When Congress passed the Affordable Care Act – or health reform – earlier this year, it didn’t solve all our health care problems, but it did recognize the link between living healthier and keeping people out of the doctor’s office.

Through health reform, thousands of cities and towns like ours will get funding to fund programs proven to be effective in encouraging physical activity in their communities.

THE NEW HEALTH CARE. HEALTHIER CHOICES. HEALTHIER AMERICA.